Wine growing / wine making

The cities of Vergèze and Codognan / Aimargues, located in the Gard department part of Occitanie region, benefit from a rich wine-growing terroir. The region has a Mediterranean climate, with hot, dry summers and mild winters. The mistral, the prevailing wind, blows regularly, helping to sanitize the vines and prevent certain diseases. The soils are mainly composed of limestone and sandstone formations. This geological diversity enables the different grape varieties to adapt well, and contributes to the aromatic complexity of the wines produced. Night harvest, light direct pressing. Free-run juice only, cold stabilization for 3 days, cold fermentation at 16°C. ORGANIC.
